LIVING BEHIND A LEVEE

Jefferson Parish is protected by an extensive levee system known as the Hurricane Storm Damage Risk Reduction System (HSDRRS). A levee is a man-made structure, usually an earthen embankment, designed to contain, control, or divert the flow of water in order to provide protection from temporary flooding. A levee is built parallel to a body of water to protect the lives and properties behind it.

The HSDRRS offers world-class and technically-advanced features that are built to protect in the event of 100-year storm surge—storms that have a one percent chance of occurring annually. The system includes the world's largest surge barrier of its kind (Inner Harbor Navigation Canal-Lake Borgne Surge Barrier), and the largest pump station in the world (Gulf Intracoastal Water Way-West Closure Complex). The section of the HSDRRS that runs through Jefferson Parish is part of a larger system of strengthened levees, floodwalls, gated structures and pump stations that spans 133 miles and also protects neighboring parishes.

Hurricane Storm Damage Risk Reduction System (HSDRRS)

This system protects Jefferson Parish from flooding from the Mississippi River, Lake Pontchartrain and the Gulf of Mexico. Areas of the West Bank are also partially protected from hurricane surge from the Gulf of Mexico by locally-built and maintained levees.

It is important to understand the risks associated with living behind levees and the steps that can be taken to address these risks. No levee provides full protection from flooding, and any levee, including the one surrounding your property, may fail. Even the best flood-control system or structure cannot completely eliminate the risk of flooding. Levees are designed to provide a specific level of protection, and larger flood events can cause them to be overtopped, or fail. Levees also decay and deteriorate over time, which may lead to failure. Various types of land subsidence including collapse into voids, sediment compaction, and drainage of organic soils can potentially undermine the integrity of the levee system and lead to levee failure.

Gulf Intracoastal Water Way-West Closure Complex

Regular maintenance and periodic upgrades are conducted to ensure that the HSDRRS retain their level of protection and continue to perform to their design.

Jefferson Parish has an all-hazard Emergency Operations Plan for the entire parish, including areas surrounding the levees. The parish's activation of the flood warning system includes, but is not limited to, announcements in the media, reverse 911, and JP Alert notifications by email, phone, and/or text message. Should flood warnings occur, take heed and follow instructions from emergency responders.

Many areas near the HSDRRS are mapped by FEMA as "X, Protected by Levee", a moderate risk flood zone where flood insurance is not required. While levees reduce flooding risk, they do not eliminate it. Damage caused by rising flood waters is covered only by flood insurance, not by homeowner's insurance. Jefferson Parish strongly recommends flood insurance on all properties behind levees. We also encourage citizens to have a disaster plan so that you can follow all evacuation recommendations and leave quickly. Sign up for JPAlert to receive emergency alerts such as life-threatening weather, evacuation details, and emergency shelters by texting JPAlert to 888777. Spanish speaking residents can text JPNOTICIAS to 888777.

For more information about living behind levees, please visit www.jeffparish.net/flood.

Jefferson Parish is a Community Rating System (CRS) participant with a Class 5 rating. Unincorporated Jefferson Parish residents enjoy a 25% savings on flood insurance because of this rating. This flyer is provided to all residents living behind levees as part of our ongoing outreach on flood risk.
