Founded in 1994, Cossich, Sumich, Parsiola & Taylor, LLC (CSP&T) is a nationally recognized firm specializing in the litigation process with a particular emphasis and a successful track record in the fields of Environmental Law, Admiralty and Maritime Law, Multi-District Litigation, Complex Litigation, Class Actions, and Personal Injury Litigation. CSP&T has obtained numerous multi-million-dollar settlements and verdicts for its clients by fighting for fair compensation and justice. At CSP&T, each attorney is committed to delivering quality legal solutions for some of today's most difficult issues, and the goal is to do so with a constant focus on personal attention to achieve maximum results.

Many of the firm's partners and associates are actively involved in ongoing litigation against the manufacturers and sellers of PFAS-containing products, such as AFFF. Partner Christina Cossich was appointed to the Plaintiffs' Executive Committee (PEC) overseeing the AFFF MDL and is Co-Chair of the Plaintiffs' Science Committee. Ms. Cossich has worked extensively to advance the development of key damage models. CSP&T founding partner Philip F. Cossich, Jr. is also heavily involved in MDL leadership activities. Both have also been actively involved in developing settlement strategies on behalf of public water providers in the AFFF MDL.

Furthermore, CSP&T, along with Baron & Budd, is representing over 200 public and private entities, including the States of Alaska, Kentucky, Arizona, and Mississippi, in ongoing PFAS litigation. Partner Brandon Taylor is the case manager spending much of his practice communicating with clients to develop their respective PFAS cases.

CSP&T attorneys routinely evaluate contamination sites, work with experts to locate contamination sources, develop and advise on legal strategy, and litigate PFAS contamination cases. CSP&T also engages experts to value cases and to determine the best method by which to remediate the client's contamination.
