Professional Legal Services Questionnaire

F. Professional Training and experience in relation to the type of work required for the outside legal services.

In today's world of quasi-governmental and private enterprises along with budget cuts and increased public scrutiny coupled with the need for further transparency, clients like Jefferson Parish should consider retaining the services of a law firm that has experience in addressing those issues and concerns. At DeRouen Law Firm (hereinafter DLF), we have extensive experience in advising our local, regional, national and international clients and governmental entities on how to solve problems and how to protect their short term and long term interests. We endeavor to help our clients with foresight to think beyond the decisions they make today and consider the effects of these decisions on the long term future of the enterprise. A correct, well-reasoned, thoughtful decision today can be the basis for avoiding problems in the future. The best measure of our services for our client's success is to minimize and sometimes eliminate our client's need for our services.

Our principal, Patrick DeRouen, was a commercial loan officer before becoming an attorney. He obtained his MBA from Loyola University in New Orleans while simultaneously earning his law degree at Tulane University. Pat's combination of real world work experience, post graduate education, legal training, community involvement and more than 30 year legal career provides DLF's business, commercial and governmental clients a unique perspective for all of their legal issues and needs.
